A year or two after coming to Grand Rapids he became a cash boy at Wurzburgs dry goods store; next he became a messenger boy and was one of the first uniformed messengers in the city. He progressed and learned telegraphy and for four years was a railroad telegrapher. Then he became operator for the United Lines-later Postal Telegraph. Later, he became a press wire telegrapher and for years worked for The Associated Press and the United Press, for six years with the Grand Rapids Herald. He then became a local manager for the Postal for ten years and was transferred to Detroit for six years, and then returned to Grand Rapids to manage the Western Union Office, where he continued for another ten years. He finally gave up the telegraph business to help organize the Preferred Automobile Insurance Company and within a year became its President. He has always been active in the business and social life of Grand Rapids, and was a member of the Rotary, Peninsular Club and the Cascade Hills Golf Club. 1888 Joseph Albright 1888 1891 1892 <https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/68729572/joseph-albright> the well-known physician and surgeon of Grand Rapids, with his office at No. 54 West Bridge street, and his residence at No. 37 Scribner street, was born in St. Catharine's, province of Ontario, dominion of Canada,

December 26, 1837.

Dr. Joseph Albright has been largely dependent upon his individual resources from early youth. By dint of hard study he was enabled to pass a teacher's examination when a young man, secured a certificate and taught school about seven years, altogether, in Canada. He spent some time in perfecting himself in the German language at an academy in Allentown, Pa., and he is, beside, proficient in several other languages. He had early determined to make the practice of medicine his life vocation, and from his earnings as a teacher secured the means to gratify this laudable aspiration. In 1868 he entered the medical department of Trinity university, Toronto, studied the science four years, and graduated in 1872. He at once began practice in Orion, Lapeer county, Mich., remained about one year, and came to Grand Rapids in 1873. Here he stands well up in the list of respectable physicians, has earned a neat and commodious home, and placed himself and family in comfortable circumstances financially. Dr. Albright was married at Grand Rapids, in 1880, to MISS FANNIE HOFFMAN, a native of Dutchess county, N. Y., and this marriage has been blessed with two children, JOSEPHINE and BLANCHE, aged, respectively, sixteen and thirteen years. The doctor and his wife are attendants upon St. Paul's Episcopal church, and of this church the children are members. Politically, Dr. Albright has been a republican ever since he has been entitled to a vote in the United States, although he is wonderfully popular with all parties in Grand Rapids, and from 1883 to 1885 served in the city council as representative from the Seventh ward, which, as a rule, is strongly democratic. He is now serving his third year as a member of the board of education. Of the professional societies he is a member of the Michigan State Medical society and the American Medical association; of the fraternal orders, he was made a Mason at Berlin, Ontario, in 1866, was dimitted to Michigan and became a charter member of Doric lodge, No. 342, and of this lodge was worshipful master for four years. The doctor is also a member of Columbian chapter, R. A. M., and of De Molai Commandery, K. T. The family are highly respected in the social circles of Grand Rapids, and their domestic life is one of unalloyed felicity.
